

Hundred Perished In Quake

Peru Gives Airlift Aid to Cuzco; Fifteen Children Drown in A Bridge Collapse

WASHINGTON, May 22—(AP)—The State Department received a report today that more than 100 people perished in the earthquake which toppled buildings in the Peruvian city of Cuzco.

The American embassy at Lima relayed the information from the prefect at Cuzco. He advised the minister of public works that more than 100 were killed and 200 injured in the city without estimating casualties in the surrounding country.

By the Associated Press

Peru launched an airlift today to speed emergency aid to the ancient Andes city of Cuzco, struck by an earthquake which killed at least 50 persons and laid waste that once-thriving seat of Inca civilization. More than 175 were injured.

The 12-second quake hit at 1:45 p.m. (EST) Sunday, causing terror among the 45,000 residents of the city, which lies 340 miles south-east of Lima. Many knelt in prayer before a statue of Christ in Cuzco's main plaza. Centuries-old stone buildings crashed to the ground.

An exact count of the casualties awaits search by rescue parties through the ruins.

The Peru disaster was one of several abroad. In London a freak tornado twisted through three valleys north of London yesterday, leaving 500 persons homeless. It climaxed a day of lightning storms that took at least three lives.

Tragedy in Procession

Tragedy overtook a children's church procession in Italy. A rickety footbridge collapsed and 15 youngsters, aged from 11 months to 11 years, drowned in the swift waters of a canal at Cavazere, south of Venice. Horrified priests and villagers managed to save 35 of the marching children. The 11-month-old boy was being carried by an older lad. City officials at Gelsenkirchen, Germany, made plans for a mass funeral service for 71 miners killed in an explosion a half mile underground in the Dahlbusch coal mine. Firedamp gas was blamed for the disaster, Germany's worst since 1946 when 439 men died at Grimberg.

Elsewhere on the international front the news was mostly political.

Britain's Labor government chiefs indicated they may water down their socialist projects and try to rule for at least another year despite their skimpy majority in parliament. Party strategy was mapped at a secret week-end meeting of top cabinet ministers, trade union leaders and spokesmen for the cooperative movement.

Konrad Adenauer, the West German chancellor, said in a speech that the French proposal for pooling French-German coal and steel output will solve the dispute over the Saar. Adenauer declared that under the pooling arrangement the question of whether the Saar was French or German would lose its significance.

Yugoslavia and Greece took a step toward bettering diplomatic relations by appointing ministers to serve in Athens and Belgrade.

Eight Teachers Here Resign

Eight teachers of the Sedalia public schools have handed in their resignations to Heber U. Hunt, superintendent of the Sedalia schools.

Miss Ella Herr, mathematics teacher at Smith-Cotton high school for 25 years and who taught 1 years outside of Sedalia, making a total of 42 years teaching, voluntarily retired. Last Thursday the women teachers of Smith-Cotton held a dinner in her honor at Flat Creek Inn and presented her with a gift.

Other teachers resigning are: Miss Ann Hurly, who taught Grade 2 at Horace Mann; Miss Barbara Roberts, who taught music at Whittier; Mrs. Julia Bamberg, who taught grade 1 at Jefferson school.

Miss Carlida Breckenridge, who taught science at Smith-Cotton the past three years. She is going to teach in North Kansas City, Mo.

Two teachers have resigned at Hubbard, Mrs. Phyllis Darnell, who taught home economics and Mrs. Mary Miller, who taught mathematics.

Be Disciplined Over Heckling

ROLLA, Mo., May 22—(AP)—Some Missouri School of Mines students face disciplinary action as a result of heckling at a Emory Allison political rally here Saturday night.

Dean Curtis L. Wilson of the state school, who announced plans for action, did not indicate how many students he would punish.

Konrad Adenauer, the West German chancellor, said in a speech that the French proposal for pooling French-German coal and steel output will solve the dispute over the Saar. ## Auto-Truck Into Ditch in A Collision

Two Slightly Hurt; Corn Scattered Along Side of Highway 65

An automobile and a truck wound-up in a ditch, six and one-half miles north of Sedalia on Highway 65, early Sunday morning at 1:50 o'clock, after the car was struck from behind by the truck, causing considerable damage to the car and slight injuries to two of the passengers in the car.

Marvin Haley, 218 South Montevideo, driving his 1949 Hudson sedan toward Sedalia, with his wife, Dorothy, two children, Donnie Lois, 2, and Dannie, 5, and Mrs. Haley's sister, Miss Marjorie Green, same address, and M. F. Garrett of Marshall, was struck by a one and one-half ton 1947 Ford truck, driven by Utah Strong, 22, of Gainesville, Mo., who was also heading toward Sedalia. The truck was loaded with 270 bushels of shell corn, which was scattered into the ditch and alongside the road way. Strong was alone in the truck, and was driving from the state of Iowa.

When the automobile was hit, it swerved along the side of the road, and wound up in a ditch, right side up, facing the opposite direction. The truck ended up a few feet forward of the car, on its right side, into the three-foot ditch.

Brought to Sedalia

Mrs. Haley, her children, sister and Garrett were given a ride into Sedalia by a passing motorist. Her sister, Miss Green was taken to the Bothwell hospital and treated by Dr. David R. Edwards. She was released shortly afterward.

She suffered shock more than anything else. Garrett received a cut on his nose. Mrs. Haley notified police, who in turn contacted Trooper Wayne Altman, who made a routine investigation at the scene. No arrests were made.

Chamberlain's wrecker pulled both vehicles back onto the highway. The rear end of the Hudson was smashed in and the front bumper and grill damaged, as a result of the nose dive into the ditch. The right front fender and running board was smashed on the truck.

It was brought out during the investigation, that both drivers were on the other side of the driving line. Haley told the Trooper he didn't know what happened until he was hit. The driver said he was driving between 40 and 45.

Strong said he was driving about 50 miles an hour.

Many motorists at the early hour stopped at the scene to view the car and truck. Flares were up.

Ducov Guilty in Liquor Fraud

KANSAS CITY, May 22—(AP)—Max Ducov, Kansas City beer distributor, today pleaded guilty to a federal charge of persuading his brother-in-law to give false statements in applying for a wholesale beer license permit.

Ducov, indicted by the jury last May 3, made the guilty plea at an arraignment before federal judge Albert L. Reeves. Judge Reeves ordered a pre-sentence investigation. It was requested by Max Goldschtein, special assistant to the attorney general.

Ducov and his brother-in-law, Nathan L. Bassin, were frequent witnesses last fall before the jury which has been investigating underworld conditions. In this case Ducov was accused of persuading Bassin to give a false and fraudulent statement to an agency of the U. S. treasury department.

Last October the grand jury cited both Ducov and Bassin for contempt, charging they had given evasive answers to questions before the grand jury. They were released from jail after they appeared before the jury and cleared themselves of contempt.

The government charged Bassin did not tell the truth about where he bought a tavern and later a beer agency. Ducov, the government said, refused to disclose the terms of the deal in which he sold the beer agency to Bassin and what he had done with a $43,000 he allegedly received from the sale.

Consider an On-Spot Check

House Group to Investigate Army Finance Center

WASHINGTON, May 22—(AP)—A House group investigating alleged Communism and irregularities at the army's finance center is considering going to St. Louis for an on-the-spot checkup.

Chairman Kilday (D-Tex.) of the armed services subcommittee said this likely would be decided by the subcommittee today at a closed session called to plan future steps in the investigation.

Kilday said definitely last Sally Dewey, a former employee credited with precipitating the current wave of investigations at the center, would be questioned, first in closed session and then in open hearing.

This may be done in St. Louis if the subcommittee decides to go there. One object of the trip would be to save bringing to Washington numerous witnesses the subcommittee wishes to hear.

Two congressional subcommittees, the civil service commission, the army inspector general's office and the government's general accounting office are looking into phases of operations at the center.

"As a result the place is in an uproar—morale is bad," said Kilday. He said he was beginning to get letters from employees at the center.

Mrs. Dewey has made a total of 112 allegations against the center. For awhile she worked with military intelligence in its check-up on Communist infiltration.

She was fired, but has since been put back on the army payroll and reassigned to the adjutant general's division in St. Louis. She is a lawyer.

Meanwhile a House civil service subcommittee headed by Rep. Karst (D-Mo.) is continuing its study of a 100-page preliminary report on activities at the center given it by the army's inspector general.

Night Porter Dies In Rubber Plant Fire

AKRON, O., May 22—(AP)—Robert Collier, a 61-year-old night porter, died today in the acrid smoke of a fire that broke out in the Xylos Rubber Co.'s three story plant.

Collier's normal station is in the basement. Firemen found his body on the second floor of the plant after bringing the three alarm blaze under control. The coroner, C. I. Martin, said Collier suffocated. Apparently he had gone to the upper floor to help fight the blaze. The flames erupted first at about 5 this morning and were extinguished with plant equipment. Then the fire flared again, just as the morning shift was going on.

In less than two hours, the fire was brought under control. There was no estimate of the loss.

No Change in Smith Position

Governor is Still Aloof as to Call Of Special Session

JEFFERSON CITY, May 22—Gov. Forrest Smith all but closed the door today on a plea for a special session of the legislature to renew the St. Louis city earnings tax.

As of now, he said, he does not feel justified in calling a special session.

St. Louis has asked the governor to call the legislators back to renew its $7,000,000 earnings tax, which expires July 17. If it is allowed to lapse, city officials have predicted a financial crisis in the state's largest city.

But in a letter to Mayor Joseph M. Darst, dated Saturday, the governor noted that last year's regulation refused to act on an earnings tax bill. Then he added: "I do not feel justified in placing an additional tax burden on all taxpayers citizens of Missouri by calling a special session, since a special session will consist of the same membership which failed to act on this bill in 1949, and for the further reason I am unable to find any change in their thinking now from that shown in the regular session."

Governor Has Cold

The governor did not come to his office this morning and his secretary, James C. Kirkpatrick, handed copies of the letter to newsmen. He said Smith was nursing a bad cold.

Reporters asked Kirkpatrick if the governor intended the letter as a final "no" to special session possibilities. Kirkpatrick said he thought it meant "no for the time being." But it could not be final because some emergency requiring a special session might still arise.

The governor said previously he could find no legislative sentiment for renewing the tax in its present form. But he said several legislators told him they would be willing to consider an earnings tax bill if it carried a referendum clause to let the people of St. Louis vote on it.

Mayor Darst said last Friday it would be "a sin against our children" if the governor failed to call a special session.

"I hate to look forward to what would happen," he said. He predicted some essential services would have to be cut off.

Jersey Parish Show May 26

Bonnie Haggard May Be Candidate For Parish Queen

Plans are in the making for an elaborate dairy show at the District Jersey Parish Show to be held in Osceola on May 26. The District 7 Parish includes Bates, Benton, Cass, Henry, Hickory, Jackson, Johnson, Pettis, Saline, Lafayette and St. Clair counties.

As an inducement to get good attendance and a good number of cattle in the show, the show committee and the local business men of Osceola, have made arrangements to assist breeders by paying $1.00 per head for animals at the shows. This is being done to help defray hauling charges.

One of the features of the Jersey dairy show this year will be the selection of a Parish Queen. Each county is eligible to select one candidate to compete for the title of Parish Queen. The queen selected at the Parish Show will complete with queens from other parishes at the State Jersey Show, held in connection with the Ozark Empire Fair at Springfield, for Missouri Jersey Queen for 1950.

Pettis County Candidate
Bonnie Haggard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garnett Haggard of Sedalia, route 3, has been selected by the local committee to be the candidate from Pettis county at the Parish Show.

Other attractions at the Parish Show include a judging contest for men, women and junior members, with prizes to be given to winners in each of the three divisions and a showmanship contest with a show halter as the prize for the best junior showman.

Earl Wood of Beaman, president of Parish, has announced that several Pettis county Jersey breeders will enter cattle in the show. Any Jersey breeder who is interested in showing should contact Mr. Wood or the County Extension office. Entries are due prior to May 22.

Freeze Rhubarb For Winter Use

What could be more tempting for a quick dessert for busy spring days than rhubarb shortcake or rhubarb betty. If you are lucky enough to have this tender early product growing right in your own garden so much the better.

But whether you grow it or buy it, few early garden products can be made into more tempting dishes than rhubarb. Its fresh, tart flavor and clear pink color and zest and a fresh note to early spring dishes. Although rhubarb has a few calories, a fair amount of vitamin C and very small amounts of other vitamins and minerals, its chief value is in the flavor and color it adds to a meal.

And if you own a home freezer or rent a locker, you can enjoy this delicious food during winter when the fresh product is a special treat. For rhubarb is one of the simplest of all foods to freeze. Miss Lillian Watkins, County Home Agent gives these directions for freezing rhubarb.

If you have a choice, choose the pink variety for freezing. After washing and cutting the stalks into 1/2-inch pieces, simply put it into cartons, seal and freeze. Rhubarb is one of the few products in the vegetable class which can be frozen satisfactorily without a heat treatment—perhaps because of its acidity.

To save all the peeling, which contains much of the attractive pink color, place the tender stalks on a board and cut with a sharp knife, or cut the stalks with a scissors.

You can obtain complete information on growing rhubarb for family use at your county agent's office. Ask for Extension Circular

Good Farming Boon to Soils

"Good Farming Makes Good Soils," says Dr. Charles E. Kellogg of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This is the subject of an article that Dr. Kellogg writes.

This article, thinks the County Extension Office, is so applicable to Pettis county that it is being recommended for reading and remembering. The following is the article:

"Somewhere the nation gets around that originally our farm soils were highly productive; that is, productive when first plowed. Many of them were like the black lands in our middle west and in Central Eurasia, for example, and in some of the great diltas and alluvial valleys. But most soils are not. It is through liming and fertilizing, drainage, irrigation, the introduction of legumes, and a host of other practices, that farmers have made their soils productive."

"After ally," he continues, "this is the important thing; not the productivity when first plowed, but the response of soil to management systems. There is no more reason for saying that large areas in the tropics are without an agricultural future than there is for saying that large areas in the United States and Western Europe are without an agricultural future, simply because one gets low yields in the absence of management practices that depend upon science and industry. Science and industry are within man's control."

Farmers Can Put Extra Cash in Bonds
Farmers may well give serious thought to purchasing some bonds during the Independence Bond Drive now in progress. The purchase of Saving Bonds is a sure investment. The bonds are cashable at any time.

Any extra dollars not needed for farm operations may well be put into these bonds now being offered for sale. Ten years from now your Savings Bonds will reach maturity and start paying you back $100 for every $75 you've wisely invested today.

Demonstrations Given 4-H Club

The Hazel Hill Hustlers 4-H club met at the home of Rodney Alexander. The roll call was answered by "your favorite flower." There were twelve members and seven visitors present. "How to Use Sharp Knives" was given by Frances Norflet. A demonstration on "How to Thread a Sewing Machine" was given by Lydia Alexander.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Norflets June 14. Refreshments were served by the host.

575. "Give Your Family Rhubarb." And this circular also contains recipes for using rhubarb. Among them are rhubarb betty, rhubarb shortcake, rhubarb pie, rhubarb conserve, rhubarb sherbet and others.

Meet May 26 on 'Open Pasture'

Farmers interested in seeing the grass and legume mixture on the Turner farm along highway 50 west of Sedalia are invited to an "Open Pasture," Friday, May 26. The hour is 1:15 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

The field is now being pastured with a small area "caged off." This is the field that was renovated and seeded in late September, 1948 in connection with the "Grow Grass Day" sponsored by the County Extension office and made possible by machinery dealers, fertilizer dealers, seed dealers, and lime producers.

Ross Fleetwood, Extension Specialist in Field Crops, University of Missouri, will be present to discuss this program and answer questions. Those interested should be on time as the meeting will be over by 2:30 to move on to the hedge spraying demonstration at Cloyce Wilson at 2:30 p. m.

Field Day June 6 on Soils

June 6 is the Field Day for Pettis county farmers to observe the soils and crops experimental work of the University of Missouri at Columbia.

The starting hour is 9:30 a. m. and the crowd will be handled in groups as they were last year. This is probably the best time of the year to see the soils and crops plots for comparing results of the different tests conducted at the station. June 6 is set aside for all counties south of the Missouri river and June 5th for the counties north of the river.

Based on previous years history a large delegation from Pettis county is expected to make this trip on June 6. It's a day chucked full of opportunities to see and hear the results of many experiments.

Just Reminder To Food Consumers

A reminder to the consumers in regard to food seems in order. Let's consider what bacon costs in 10 countries in terms of working time required to buy a pound. In the United States it takes 30 minutes work to buy a pound. In Australia it takes 40 minutes in Canada, 45 minutes, in Great Bri-

Spraying for the Killing of Hedge

Two demonstrations to kill hedge by spraying will be demonstrated Friday, May 26, announces the County Extension Office.

The first demonstration at 9:30 a. m. will be held on the farm of Clarence Shileman, 2 miles east of Houstonia on the south side of the road. At this place a hedge fence will be sprayed. Take the road at the south east part of the town, past the cemetery and go east 2 miles.

The afternoon demonstration at 2:30 will be on the Cloyce Wilson farm which is 3 miles west of highway 65 and 1/2 mile south of the State Fair Grounds.

After each demonstration, put on by the cooperation of the Extension Service, the Pettis County Farm Bureau and the Farm Bureau Service Co. of Missouri, a short trip will be made to see results secured last year from spraying hedge.

Look elsewhere for announcements of a meeting on pasture renovation at 1:15 p. m.

Chinese Reds Ban Film Glamor
HONG KONG—(AP)—Most of China's movie stars have agreed to cut out the glamor. Eighty-two leading Chinese actors and actresses are reported by the left-wing newspaper Ta Kung Pao to have expressed willingness to adhere to a "laboring life pact."

All 82 have taken refuge in Hong Kong which today is China's Hollywood. Before the Communists overran the mainland, Shanghai was the film capital of China. Since the Red occupation of the city, however, the distinction has come to this British crown colony.

Hong Kong's film industry is not subject to Red laws but has found it necessary to fall into line with the Communists. Red China is the principal market. All films must pass Red censors.

Mr. and Mrs. Eickoff of Mora Celebrate 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Otto L. Eickoff of near Mora, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at their home May 7th. At the noon hour a basket dinner was served cafeteria style from large tables which had been placed on the lawn.

The home was decorated with cut flowers. The centerpiece for the dining room table was a large three tier wedding cake with a miniature bride and bridegroom on top, which was baked by Mrs. Leo Bahnenburg, Mrs. Anna Gerken, Mrs. Josephine Eickhoff, Mr. and Mrs. Theo F. Tobaben, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gerken and daughter Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harms and son Alen, daughter Wilma, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Rehmer daughter Helen and son Ralph, Mr. Fred Harms, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Mein and daughter Edna Mae and son John, all of Cole Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Eickoff have spent their entire 25 years of married life on their farm where Mrs. Eickoff was born and reared. They were married at St. Paul's American Lutheran church in Cole Camp by the Reverend I. J. Haag, pastor. Their attendants were Miss Lydia Gerken, now Mrs. Sidney Blood of Medford, Ore., and Leo Bahnenburg of Cole Camp. Mrs. Blood called by telephone from Medford to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Eickoff on their anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Eickoff received many gifts.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round U. S. Army Has Fiendish New War Gas Which Makes Men Insane

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—A sensational story was flashed out of Detroit recently that the Army has developed a magic nerve gas which destroys the will to resist and makes war painless.

The story grew out of a remark by Maj. Gen. Anthony McAuliffe, chief of the Army chemical corps, who happened to mention nerve gases at the American Chemical Society's annual meeting in Detroit. The sensational details about making war painless, however, were supplied by an imaginative reporter.

Inside facts about the Army's new nerve gases are sensational, all right, but exactly opposite to what the press reported. The gases do not cause a gentle sleep and do not pave the way for bloodless conquest. Instead, they drive men mad, turn them into raging lunatics before killing them.

The Army's experiments have been based on two nerve gases developed by the Germans and still known by their German names—tabun and sarin. These are fiendishly lethal gases, depending upon the dose. A small dose will cause severe headache, nausea and chest congestion. A few extra whiffs will attack the optic nerve and cause blindness, then degenerate vital brain cells, until the victim loses his sanity. Homicidal tendencies are supposed to result.

Gas masks are no protection from tabun and sarin, which seep into the body through the skin pores. Protective clothing has been developed, however, that will help.

Russians Have Secret, Too?

The Army is now using goats, rabbits and rats to experiment with tabun and sarin at Dugway proving ground in the barren Utah desert. The gases are invisible and difficult to detect, though Army scientists who have gotten a whiff of escaping tabun say it smells faintly like "juicy fruit" chewing gum.

The Germans turned over 200-pound and 500-pound tabun gas bombs to the U. S. Army after V-E day—bombs which had never been used for fear of retaliation—though captured German documents show that propaganda minister Joseph Goebbels urged that Hitler resort to tabun in the last, desperate days.

German officers handling the tabun bombs were deathly afraid of them, warned that they might explode if left in the sun too long.

Inasmuch as the Russians took over German war secrets, it is safe to assume that Russians have been experimenting with tabun and sarin in the same way we are doing.

NOTE—Dr. Albert Speer, former Reichsminister of armament, told Allied authorities he had planned to kill Hitler with tabun by filtering it into his ventilating system. But Hitler built a protective chimney around the ventilating funnel before Dr. Speer could carry out his plot.

Harry's Whistle-Stop

Whether you agree with President Truman or not, any fair-minded political observer will agree that when Harry gets out among the folks, it does something both for him and for them.

He is like Antaeus who got new strength every time he was thrown to earth, and whom Hercules could not vanquish until he held him over his head away from the earth.

Likewise Harry Truman is strongest when he gets away from his palace guard of clones and sticks close to the earthy people from whom he came and to whom he belongs. They give him almost a spiritual lift, and he in turn gives them a political lift as far as his popularity and the Democratic party are concerned.

This, of course, is something for the Republicans to worry about.

However, in these days of new and fiendish poison gases, there is also something else for all of us to worry about—namely, the wave of neutrality that is sweeping Western Europe.

Carefully nurtured by the Communist party and by the Moscow radio, many Europeans have come to believe that the U.S.A. is the world's worst warmonger and that Western Europe is foolish to get in the middle of a clash between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.

Propaganda is relatively cheap. It costs little to send radio waves into Western Europe, or send Communist speakers among the ranks of labor. The Marshall plan costs us billions annually and has done a great job in rebuilding Europe. But we have received little credit for it, because we haven't accompanied it by the proper sales campaign.

Soap and Peace

No good American business firm ever curtails advertising for long; but many Republican Congressmen, influenced in part by business, voted to curtail the State Department's sales campaign to Europe. Several years ago, a well-known American soap cut down its advertising on the theory that enough Americans were sold on the fact that "it floats." Sales immediately dropped, and that company has come back as a big advertiser since.

All this is by way of saying that the United States has to sell its peaceful aims, its generosity, its constructive moves to rebuild the world, not once, but all the time. It can never stop.

Furthermore, we have to think up new sales ideas, new advertising gimmicks regarding our peace aims, just as a manufacturing company thinks up new promotion plans to sell its goods.

SO HERE IS A SUGGESTION: President

Truman, a down-to-earth, likable gentleman, who goes over great with the plain people, should go to Europe this fall or summer to make a whistle-stop tour.

If he visited not merely the big capitals, but took a train through the heart of France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, stopping at little stations along the way, he could do a great selling job for his country and a far greater service than touring our own western states.

I personally have spoken from flat cars in the railroad stations of the cities of France and Italy and I know how the people welcome anyone who deals not government-to-government but people-to-people.

And Harry Truman, I predict, giving off-the-cuff, down-to-earth, sincere, straight-from-the-shoulder facts about what the American people have already done for Europe, and the reasons why we have done it, would become the world's No. 1 salesman of democracy and would stymie the Moscow radio for months to come.

Party Labels Mean Less And Less as Issues Unfold

By Peter Edson
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—(NEA)—There is one major issue in the 1950 political campaign which is now hard pressing upon the voters. There is no precise name for it. The old labels don't quite fit. It is more a state of mind, a sixth sense or a political "feel" which voters are being asked to decide upon and express.

For lack of better words, this issue might be defined as conservatism versus liberalism, reactionarism versus progressivism or just plain Taftism versus Trumanism. It is in no sense a conflict between Republicans and Democrats, though these names still appear on the headquarters doors. The main issue is at stake within both the two major parties.

It was at stake in the Republican primary in Pennsylvania. The fight there was whether the old conservative G.O.P. machine under Joseph R. Grundy should remain in power. It was kicked out by a new progressive movement led by Gov. James H. Duff.

It was at stake in the Alabama primary. The fight there was over control of the State Democratic committee. The reactionary Dixiecrats lost.

Conservatism versus liberalism is the issue in California. Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas, seeking the Democratic senatorial nomination, is an all-out liberal. Manchester Boddy, publisher of the Los Angeles News, who is opposing her, has advocated many progressive policies, but is trying to rally the conservative strength of the Democratic party behind him. Whoever wins in this primary race will face Rep. Richard M. Nixon, Republican conservative.

It is the main issue in North Carolina, where liberal Democratic Senator Frank M. Graham is fighting to retain his seat against divided opposition. Willis Smith is a lawyer who is considered conservative, while ex-Senator Robert Reynolds is ultra-conservative.

Conservatism was the issue in the Oregon primary, where contests in both parties were to unseat progressive Republican Senator Morse.

This struggle for a political philosophy becomes apparent not only from trying to digest the 50 speeches made by President Truman on his swing through the northwest. It is also obvious from the bulletins put out by the Republican National Committee from day to day, during the President's tour, and from the formal counter-blast made by Ohio Senator Robert A. Taft.

Taft Sees Himself As Progressive

Senator Taft says he has never met any of the "greedy, selfish reactionaries" that President Truman is always talking about. Taft really considers himself a progressive. He takes credit for having sponsored the public housing and hospital construction programs passed by the 81st Congress.

Many of the things Taft says he stands for, the Democratic liberals can also say they support. For instance: An all-powerful U. S. armed force . . . liberty, freedom of speech, a proper minimum wage, protection of farm prices . . . better education, health, housing, security, elimination of hardship and poverty.

But Senator Taft claims there is a difference in his approach to these things. He wants them only if they can be obtained by avoiding—in every case except public utilities—"the deadening regulation of government bureaus attempting to fix prices, practices, and quotas in free industries."

Liberals may probably object to this Taft analysis of Truman's methods and of what the President wants for the country. Taft indulges in considerable exaggeration. Truman does the same thing in talking about the reactionaries. That's politics and only to be expected, if you know how to take it.

In no sense, however, can Truman be called a conservative. His speeches all through the west were booster stuff. He advocated everything bigger and better—dams, crops, programs, benefits, income.

The specific items in the Truman program to which Senator Taft objects most strenuously are the Brannan farm plan, national health insurance, government taxing and spending of 25 per cent of the national income, the $6,000,-000,000 deficit, the International Trade Organization, reduction of tariffs and repeal of the Taft-Hartley law.

Senator Taft is also against Alger Hiss, hushing up of the Amerasia case, Kansas City crime, John Maragon, General Vaughan, Mayor Curley, Henry Wallace, Harry Hopkins, Yalta, Potsdam and the "pro-Communist policies of our State Department," which he says placed Russia in a position where it is a threat to the world.

It is largely an anti-Truman program. Everything that Truman is for, Taft is against—except, perhaps, Truman's idea that every family should have an income of $4000 a year by 1960. Taft seriously says he doesn't see why it couldn't be $5000—under certain conditions. Of course, Taft doesn't believe it could be $4000 under Truman's program. But Taft's bid of $5000 does top what he calls Truman's "vague promises."

Abundant Living

by
E. STANLEY JONES

II Tim. 2:22; I Tim. 5:8; Gal. 5:24; I Pet. 2:11
A DISCIPLINED SEX LIFE

We have talked about disciplining the first of the three driving urges—the self. We come to the second—sex.

Life seems very heavily loaded on the side of sex. Some would think there is far too much sex for purposes of procreation. The human race, they think, could have procreated itself without the sex in normal human nature the sex urge. It is quite probable that in normal human nature the sex urge is not so strong or so continuous as it is in abnormal modern life, but is occasional as in animals and birds—active during mating seasons, dormant the rest of the time. This is true among primitive peoples. But modern life has become strongly sexed. Everywhere the sex appeal meets one. Even advertisements carry it to attract attention. A cartoon shows a man hitting a golf ball, and a picture of a woman is drawn near the ball to make sure that he will keep his eye on the ball. Can we not keep our eye on the ball of human living without sex being used to focus our attention? Life has been tending more and more in the direction of sex. Sex has been occupying the center of the stage, the center of literature, the center of dress, the center of our thinking. Freud explains this modern absorption in sex by saying that all life must be interpreted in terms of sex.

With all this emphasis upon sex, one would have expected this age to have found itself sexually. On the contrary, no age seems to have become more sexually dissatisfied than this. The fact of one divorce in every six marriages tells the story of breakdown within marriage relationships. A young man committed suicide and left a note saying, "Died of old age at 21." This tells the tragic story of breakdown in sex outside marriage relationships. He had run through his sex experiences at 21, and they had turned to ashes in his hands. Evidently in the matter of sex man is up against something that cannot be set down to taboos and restraints. Can it be that the nature of reality is working against modern sex attitudes and causing them to break down?

O my Creator God, Thou wilt have to take me by the hand lest I be lost in the jungle of sex desire. For if I let off the track here, I find myself in a jungle which grows more tangled every moment. Help me to see things clearly and to see them whole. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Parents Should Keep Patience While 'Housebreaking' a Child

BY EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Mothers frequently become much concerned if their small children do not develop "bladder control" as soon as the child of some other member of the family or of some neighbor. For some reason they often seem to feel that this is a sign of inferiority and a reflection either on the heredity or the motherly care. Now, of course, this worry is quite unnecessary because perfectly normal children do not all develop control at the same age.

In newborn infants the process of emptying the bladder is automatic and is not at all controlled by the so-called higher functions in the brain. Just as soon as the bladder becomes stretched, the nerves carry the message to the spinal cord and emptying of the bladder takes place. It is only slowly that the sensation of a full urinary bladder begins to be carried up to the brain itself and the child develops control of urination.

Sometimes a child wets during the day or night at three or four years old, or even beyond. Only occasionally is this a sign of diabetes or some other true disease. Usually it means either rebellion on the part of the child or a feeling of insecurity.

Sometimes such children have had the importance of keeping dry overemphasized to them and take a childish delight in frustrating their parents. When this is the reason, the parents ought to pay less attention to the whole thing and to show no signs of annoyance or any other emotion when such wetting—"enuresis" as it is called—occurs. This is often enough to solve the problem.

A healthy baby usually begins to establish bowel control between one and two years old. When the baby is nine or 10 months old it can be placed for short periods on the "potty."

At first this has to be done with the child lying down as it is not yet able to sit up safely. Most infants begin to catch on to the idea quickly, especially if praise is given when the desired results occur.

The "potty" should be used regularly at the same time of day, usually after the first morning meal. Neither the mother nor the baby should be woin out by keeping it up too long if success is not achieved.

Praise May Help

All normal children enjoy cleanliness and appreciate praise. Parents should not appear irritated when the infant fails as this may merely make the baby worse and delay bowel control. Once it has been established and the child is a little older, the responsibility for the bowels should be carried by the child rather than the parent.

Every mother wants her baby to develop bladder and bowel control as early as possible. There is not much use in starting too soon; also normal infants do not all develop control over their bodily functions at the same age. Therefore, it is unnecessary to worry too much if there seems to be a slight delay.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

HOW THE NEW MINIMUM WAGE AFFECTS BUSINESS

By Sigrid Arne

WASHINGTON.—(CP)—One minor disaster that the U. S. was warned it might have to face does not appear to be happening. There were predictions last year that a minimum wage of 75 cents an hour would put such a strain on some businesses that workers would lose jobs and business men would lose their investment.

So far the Wage-Hour division of the Labor Department has no such reports. The 75 cent minimum has been in effect since Jan. 25, 1950. The minimum wage had been 40 cents from 1945 on.

The LONESOME BRIDE

By Grace Nies Fletcher

Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: When Gloria Brown, bride of four months, asks her next door neighbor, Mrs. Benson, to show her how to make apple pie, a murder seems to be in the air. The Benson daughter, Gloria, and her husband, Miltiades, the son of a Boston college professor, discover the police arrive and also discover the body and Gloria and Miltiades seem to be under suspicion.

Lieutenant McGinn of homicide.

VII

LIEUT. THOMAS X. MCGINN of homicide was a plump little Irishman in a salt and pepper suit. He was rather like two dumplings set on top of each other, the small one on the big one, but there was nothing funny about his eyes, hard and very blue with sparks in them when he was mad, as now, like two pieces of steel clashing, which betrayed his calling—that of putting miscreants in jail.

"It would have been wiser," he commented, ignoring Gloria and speaking to Miltiades, "if you had called the police at once when you found Jack the Cork."

"You know who he is!" Gloria cried, waving her long lashes at him admiringly. "I thought he couldn't be just a delivery boy. I think the Brooklyn police are wonderful! Do you know who killed him, too?"

"I," the lieutenant told her, "am asking the questions around here, young lady. Since when did the Cork become a delivery boy?"

So she told him about the hat "from Aradine's, how the lock had slipped on the bathroom door—maybe and maybe not—and how upset Mrs. Benson had been when her husband phoned about some thing on page 7 of the newspaper, which McGinn read avidly when she showed it to him.

"Czerny, Standt, Gordon—Lofty Gordon! That'd be him. He was paroled yesterday and we were expecting trouble but not so soon. Jack the Cork was a member of the Benson gang and Lofty used to be. But something happened, we don't know exactly what, and he got on the outs and was sent up for five years. The Cork snatched on him. Jack was called the Cork because he was very fond of champagne, and once he'd pulled the cork he never put the bottle down till it was empty. An expensive habit, so he had to steal occasionally; and when soused, he was very careless with a knife."

"I'm getting mixed up. I thought it was he who was knifed!" Gloria murmured.

The lieutenant nodded unhappily. "He was. And you are not the only one who is mixed up, because we have been watching the Benons and now they are gone and the emeralds are gone—and so is Jack the Cork. It could be the Benons killed him themselves, before they skipped with the jewels."

Using my knife and getting him neatly delivered on our dumb-waiter," Miltiades commented bitterly. "Why did they pick on us for the tall guys?"

"If they did," the lieutenant amended gently, getting up. "After all, it was your knife and ownership of the murder weapon . . . He left it at that, asking, 'You say you work at 194 Broadway?'"

MILTIADES nodded and looked actively miserable, for the company was not going to like this sort of publicity over an employee and jobs were getting scarce. "Good grief, I'd better call the boss!" he recalled suddenly. "I didn't even tell him I was leaving this morning; I just walked out. Maybe," he said uneasily, "I'd better go tell him myself about this mess. Not over the phone."

"Want a lift?" the lieutenant offered. "I think I'll take a run over to Aradine's. Don't worry. There won't be anything about you in the papers—yet. The reporters' war cry will be for the Benons. But don't decide to take a trip, you two, see?"

"Okay. Thank you, but I'll take the subway," Miltiades refused the ride. The idea of drawing up to the office in a Black Maria, even disguised as a black radio car, was somewhat repugnant. "You all right now, Kitten?"

"I am far from all right but I'll do something about it at once," Gloria said, making a rueful face at her disheveled self in the mirror. "I feel like the leper in the Bible, 'Unclean, unclean!' I shall burn everything I have on in the incinerator. Is there any reason why we should not go to Jones' Beach for a swim when Miltiades gets back? I should like to get out of here."

"Go ahead," the lieutenant told her. "But don't get excited if you spot someone following you. Checking on you, yes, but more for protection."

THE door closed behind them and, for the first time in her married life, she was glad to get rid of her husband because she wanted to think. It was all her fault Miltiades was in this predicament, fantastic and unbelievable as it was, so it was up to her to get him out. If she'd stuck to the principles poked into her along with her spinach in early childhood, not to speak to strange people even in church, she'd never have been mixed up with jewel thieves and murderers.

Not that Gloria had been brought up as a snob. Hadn't she banged a typewriter for three years after her big coming out party at Hampshire House? True, her father, Colonel Perkins, had had to have lunch with Prof. John Neme Burn before she was allowed to take the job, which at the time had seemed extremely stuffy but which now seemed safe, sane, and very healthy—a lot healthier than having to be trailed by a plain-clothes man because maybe she knew too much and maybe the same unpleasant thing could happen to her as to Jack the Cork.

"I'd better go get some food for a lunch to take to Jones' Beach," she decided sensibly. She and Miltiades could stay till the moon rose and it would be all romantic and silvery.

Employer's Married Life is Not His Secretary's Business

Here's a letter from a secretary who claims her employer's wife doesn't understand him. The secretary, I gather, does.

Well, Miss Secretary, don't you bother your little head about your boss' relationship with his wife. That is his and her department—and strictly private.

And if it isn't too impertinent, may I ask you a few questions? What makes you think that you are working for a misunderstood man? Did he tell you so himself? Or did you just sit down and figure out for yourself that you are the only woman in the world who has his best interests at heart? Either way you're on dangerous ground. If he told you, then you can be pretty sure he is up to no good. Self-styled misunderstood husbands never are.

And if you've figured it out for yourself that is a pretty good indication that you are taking too personal an interest in your boss. It's even possible that, since his wife doesn't understand him, you can convince him that you do. Many a marriage has been broken up by a woman who is clever at convincing a man he is misunderstood at home.

"Misunderstood" Plaintiff Is Common

The reason I'm answering your letter in print is because you aren't the first woman to write me about what a "crying shame" it is that some perfectly wonderful boss has a wife who doesn't appreciate or understand him.

And in every case I'm skeptical, for several reasons. One is that just because a woman knows how a man acts around an office doesn't mean she has any idea of what he is like at home.

And the other reason is that the working girl who claims her employer's wife doesn't understand him always implies that she does. And that, Miss Secretary, is how triangles get started.

So my advice to you is to stop worrying about your boss' private life. That really isn't part of a secretary's job.

some layoffs in hosiery mills, but Labor Department experts have heard other conditions in the industry may have been responsible. They say some of the little portable saw mills of the South—known as "peckerwood mills"—shut up but that some are now reopening with better machinery. There have been some layoffs in plants turning out cotton garments and some in wood furniture plants.

The cottage where Woodrow Wilson and his bride spent their honeymoon is still popular with newlyweds at Arden, in the mountains of western North Carolina. There have been line.

Congress almost doubled it because living costs had almost doubled.

Employers said the new law would add about $300,000,000 to their payrolls, that some might have to close up shop and that many might have to lay off some workers. The Labor Department said the new ruling would benefit only about 1,500,000 workers, who would get increases of from five to 15 cents an hour. The legal minimum would jump from $16 to $30 a week and from $832 to $1,560 a year.

Labor experts said that naturally the increase would hit the low-pay industries, which include lumbering and wood working, tobacco, leather, cotton apparel, textiles, food processing, wholesaling and communications. Workers in canning and food processing and in tobacco plants were earning as low as 40 cents an hour. Workers in the lumber industry were getting 50 to 60 cents an hour. In the garment, textile and hosiery industries they were getting 50 to 65 cents an hour.

So the Congress-directed jump was as much as 35 cents an hour for some workers. So far there has been no systematic check of what happened to the industries that had to up their pay rolls. But piecemeal information filtering into the Labor Department says there have been very few layoffs and no jumps in the prices of products these low-paid workers turn out.

Right now the department is getting ready to make a careful check of what happened. But it will be some months before the study is done. There have been line.

The Reds CAN Be Stopped in Asia: 6
Japan is Asia's Bright Spot For Pacific Stability

"CO-PROSPERITY:" General MacArthur (extreme left), here leaving his Tokyo headquarters, has lent his blessing to Japanese trade missions in Southeast Asia to build stability.

EDITOR'S NOTE: John Strohm, who gave the world its first word and picture story of life inside the Iron Curtain two and one-half years ago, has again gone to an area of prime news interest to bring the American newspaper readers the inside story of Southeast Asia. Here, on a "front" which diplomats regard as the most critical in the Cold War, Strohm has spent 10 weeks getting the picture with typewriter and camera. He has visited nine countries and spoken with diplomats, officials, businessmen, soldiers and with Gen. Douglas MacArthur. This is the last of six dispatches in which Strohm outlines the dangers of the situation but indicates a possible long road to salvation and economic stability.

By John Strohm
NEA Special Correspondent
TOKYO—Japan is the brightest spot today in all Asia. Coming here from countries like India, Pakistan, Siam, Indonesia and Indo-China, the traveler is struck by two facts:

The Japanese work harder, longer and more efficiently than any other Asiatics except the Chinese. Compared with the blacksmith shop industry found in most Southeast Asia, the well-developed industrial machine here makes Japan look like the America of the Pacific.

From Gen. MacArthur on down I heard the conviction that this country, headed at last down a truly democratic course, can be relied upon to harness its industrial power to Southeast Asia's economy and put the entire region on a self-supporting plane.

After an hour-long interview with MacArthur, I came away with the impression that Japan can be a great force for peace and stability in the Pacific.

Japan's pre-war "co-prosperity sphere for Asia" had the same announced goal of a closely-knit southeastern economy. It would have been sound, the general believes, had it been operated as a two-way street instead of a one-way route serving Japan's power-mad military leaders.

The link is a natural one, Japan must import raw materials and a fourth of its food. Southeast Asia can supply these wants in return for machinery and factory products it sorely needs to achieve a more stable life.

There's proof that this ambitious plan is practical; it's already working on a limited scale. Japan has concluded barter deals with India, Pakistan, Siam and others. More are shaping up and MacArthur has lent his blessing by authorizing trade missions to various spots.

But, as I had learned elsewhere on my trip across southern Asia, there's a necessary prelude to full-blown trading between Japan and the others. First, the Communists' advance into the Southeast must be broken. Only when the Reds are stopped can the region be free to pour all its energies into recovery.

Weaving Japan into the southeastern economic fabric has this promising angle for us, too; it would take a billion-dollar load off the U. S. taxpayer's back. Last year Japan cost us half a billion, and we loaned Indonesia $100,000,000. (Now Burma wants $50,000,000 for "general rehabilitation.")

Japan's industrial comeback is deeper than mere economics. I found a complete about-face in attitude as compared with the belligerence I noted on a trip just before the war. Then arrogant Jap soldiers followed me around; twice I was arrested as I walked through rural areas with my camera.

This time an American officer who has lived here four years told me: "Even if we were to leave here tomorrow, I'm convinced Japan would never turn back from the democratic road she's following now."

I asked the mayor of a small village north of Tokyo how he was elected. "I campaigned for a democratic Japan," he replied. "I promised the people 'I'll be your servant, not your master.'"

One observer told me: "Like all Orientals, the Japanese despise a loser and admire a winner. So they were prepared to examine the U. S., to see what made us tick, how we came to win. We have opened to them a vast vista of decency and justice, a better way of life."

In contrast, Communism is losing ground in Japan today. Moscow has ordered Jap Reds to forget about trying to take over the government legally, to work instead to influence "front" groups with the aim of getting the U.S. army out of the country.

MacArthur has proposed that the Communist party be banned and Japanese reaction was reported favorable.

An official in MacArthur's command told me: "If the Japs agree on any one thing, it's their hatred and fear of Russia. They recoil from the doctrine of Communism."

MacArthur himself believes the Japanese are now the world's greatest pacifists. In another way they want neutrality. Victims of the first atomic bombs and of fire raids that killed 75,000 in a single night, they know war at its worst.

The Japanese have enough to do just keeping alive. Some 82,000,000 are crammed into islands less than the size of California, which has 10,000,000. Jap population lation climbs a million and a half a year.

Only 16 per cent of the land can be farmed. The Japanese hand-till the soil to get the last possible ounce of food. Their 75-bushel-per-acre rice yields are the world's highest. They sometimes cultivate patches no bigger than a handkerchief. And men even carry soil on their backs up steep mountainsides, to create terraced plots on rocky cliffs.

With all this labor Japan still can produce only three-fourths of the food it needs. Since the war the U. S. has shipped in more than $1,000,000,000 worth. The American taxpayer must dig down to pay a $160,000,000 food bill this year.

That's why the American officials I talked to here are so hopeful Japan can tap Southeast Asia for its foodstuffs.

Some of the cheerful signs called to my notice:

A $80,000,000 barter with Siam, the latter getting railroad cars and machinery in return for 300,000 tons of rice, soybeans and sesame seed; a $50,000,000 deal with

But Japan's path to a key role in Southeast Asia won't be flowery strewn. Asiatics who felt the heel of the Japanese army don't forget quickly. The Japs left a trail of hate through many lands. A Dutch importer who was tied by his thumbs in a Jap prison camp while a fire was set under his feet, bitterly protests "Japanese economic penetration of Indonesia."

Neither the Dutch nor the British and French can be expected to take too kindly to the idea of the former Jap enemy taking over markets in southeastern nations that have been good customers for the West.

Yet it's the United States which must pay the freight if these countries don't go onto a self-supporting basis. And top American authorities here make it plain they believe Japan is the motive force that can put Southeast Asia in business for itself.

Records Are to Be Available

Inquiry Soon be On Over Perverts And 'Commies'

By Maria L. Arrowsmith
WASHINGTON, May 22—(AP)—Senator Wherry (R.-Neb.) said today impounded records of the Washington police department will be available for a Senate inquiry into federal employment of sexual perverts.

Wherry and Senator Hill (D.-Ala.) conducted a preliminary investigation which prompted a Senate Appropriations subcommittee to vote last week for a full-scale study of the situation. They quoted police officials as estimating there are about 3,750 homosexuals in government jobs in the nation's capital.

Such perverts are regarded as dangerous security risks because they generally are easy prey for blackmailers. Both Hill and Wherry have stressed that Communists in the role of blackmailers could do real damage to the nation.

"We have a lot of material which did not go into our report to the subcommittee," Wherry told a reporter. "We impounded all the police department records on the matter, and all of those will be handed over to the committee which continues the investigation."

Vice President Barkley is expected to announce soon which Senate committee will get the investigation resolution introduced by Hill on behalf of all the members of the appropriations unit.

Hill has recommended that the inquiry be conducted by the Senate Expenditures committee, which has a special investigations subcommittee headed by Senator Hoyer (D.-N.C.).

Hoyer said that if his group got the assignment there probably would be no public hearings, but a quiet investigation behind closed doors.

The ranking Republican on the Hoyer subcommittee is Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, whose charges of communism and homosexuality in the State Department touched off a separate Senate investigation being conducted by a Foreign Relations subcommittee. Wherry said he would prefer having the inquiry assigned to the Senate Judiciary committee "because the laws and penalties to prevent homosexuals from getting into the government need to be tightened." He said, however, that he would not object if Barkley named the expenditures group.

Personals

Mrs. Kathryn Moulton and sons Mike and Bobby of Cleveland, Ohio are here visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Wade, 212 East Fifth street.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wilhite, 311 Seventh street, have returned home from a visit with their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilhite and children, Val De and Deirda, in Gulfport, Miss. They have been away three weeks.

Mrs. Thomas Bell, of 410 South Lafayette avenue, has returned home from Kirksville, where she has been spending a few days with her son, Wallace Bell, and family. While there she attended the graduation of her granddaughter, Miss Delores Jean Bell, from the Kirksville high school. The Bell family formerly resided in Sedalia.

Mrs. J. N. Conyers, of Green Ridge, has as a guest in her home Mrs. Eula Batt of Arroyo-Grande, California, for a month's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Warren, 1702 West Broadway, had as their week-end guests their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Warren of Springfield. They also had as guests Mr. Warren's brother, Lee Warren and his daughter, Mrs. Howard Martin and son, Howard Jr., all of Peoria, Ill.

Thieves Steal an Adding Machine

Thieves broke into the Fortuna elevator Sunday night. They gained entrance by cutting a circle in the east glass window above the latch with a glass cutter.

A bread truck driver noticed the hole in the glass this morning and notified the manager, Berk Streser. The Morgan county sheriff, Walter Haldiman, and State Trooper H. E. Priess are investigating the theft. The only thing known missing was an electric adding machine. A check is being made to ascertain if anything else was taken.

Charge Carrying Concealed Weapons

Charge of carrying a concealed weapon has been filed against Wiley Bonner, Negro, 217 East Fifth street.

He was arrested by police late Friday night, following an attempted break-in at 428 East St. Louis street, at the home of Mrs. Daisy Case.

When the police went to the neighborhood to investigate that night, they found Bonner hiding in weeds near the viaduct, and was carrying a .38 revolver.

He is being held in the county jail, pending a hearing in Magistrate court.

Impressive Victory For Sedalia Legion

The Sedalia Junior Legion Post 16 baseball team scored an impressive victory over Warsaw Sunday by whipping them 13 to 1, behind the Sedalia pitching of Johnson and Bill Arnold.

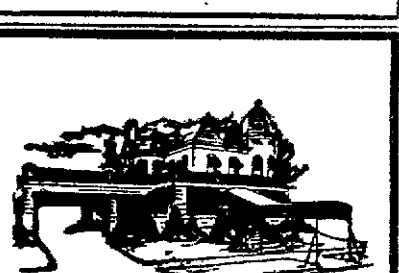

Cochran and Larry Mines formed the other part of the Sedalia battery behind the plate.

Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock under the lights of Liberty Park, the Sedalia Legion will play host to the Warsaw team.

The Sedalia team has won all of their games thus far this season.

Program For Jaycee Repast

The Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce kick-off banquet will be held tonight starting at 7:00 o'clock in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell hotel. About 130 people are expected to attend the banquet being held in honor of the charter presentation, which will formally introduce the new organization to Sedalia.

The principal speaker this evening will be Floyd Stewart, who will also present the charter. He is the national vice-president of the Jaycees.

Short talks will also be given by Mayor Herb E. Studer, Dr. Stanley Peterson, president-elect of the State Jaycees, and Tom Yount, chairman of the Sedalia Civic Council.

There will also be a musical program. Bert Hathaway will be the toastmaster. A number of civic leaders have been invited to attend as guests of the local organization.

Found Dead of Shotgun Wound

William Edgar Simmers, 25 years of age, was found dead Sunday morning at 7:45 o'clock by his father, Edgar Simmers, in his car, a 1941 Ford sedan, a quarter of a mile east of Clarksburg. He was shot through the head with a 12-gauge shotgun.

Some of the shot went through the head and out a car window, which was shattered.

Dr. Kenyon Latham, coroner of Monitqua county after an investigation, stated an inquest would not be necessary because it was believed Mr. Simmers took his own life.

He was born May 27, 1925 at Clarksburg. He is a veteran of World War I and was overseas. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Simmers.

Surviving beside his parents are one brother Truman Simmers of Prairie Home; one sister, Mrs. Ralph Vaughn, north of Clarksburg, his two grandmothers, Mrs. Delzetta Simmers and Mrs. Susan Jobe, his great grandfather A. V. Jobe of Clarksburg, three nephews and one niece.

Funeral services will be at 2:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Clarksburg Baptist church with the Rev. Jack Hood of California officiating.

Pallbearers will be Lloyd Winebrenner, Wilbert Winebrenner, Lloyd Vaughn, Jack Stewart, Paul Birdsong and Virgil Baker.

The body is at the Richard's funeral home in Tipton.

Burial will be in the Clarksburg Masonic cemetery.

Prof. Smart in Rotary Address

"It's time to assert ourselves, to inform ourselves and go to work to sustain this great way of life of ours," Prof. John R. Smart, superintendent of the Glasgow public schools said in an address today noon before the Rotary club at Bothwell hotel.

Speaking on "Democracy—And the Missouri Mule," Prof. Smart pointed out that this country became great because of certain fundamental principles growing out of certain attitudes and feelings. No place on earth, he said, does there exist at this time these principles but in the good old U. S., and actually the rural midwest where "the grass grows green all round and a fella can go out in his back yard and breathe a breath of fresh air."

But we have two dangers, Prof. Smart warned, very much in evidence, being complacent and not being interested and he urged we wake up and do something before it is too late.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Roy M. Keller, program chairman.

Oscar DeWolf, president, presided over the meeting and invocation was by Rev. Thomas W. Croxton.

Guests were introduced by Fred Brink as follows: Bill McCrary and K. P. McCrary, Marshall; Robert Solomon, guest of Dr. L. S. Geiger and Al Lester of Kansas City; Ernest Elsea and C. Wayne Elsea, Marshall.

Poppies Are Made By Disabled Veterans

Making memorial poppies to be worn in honor of the war dead on Poppy Day, May 27, is providing employment for thousands of disabled veterans in hospitals throughout the country, according to Mrs. L. V. Morris, Poppy chairman of Post 16, unit of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The flowers are made of crepe paper with wire stems and are accurate replicas of the wild poppies of France and Belgium which grew in such profusion on the battlefields.

Business Men Buy Most of Town

SIKESTON, Mo., May 22—(AP)—Three Sikeston business men, one from Memphis, Tenn., have purchased the major part of Risco, Mo., in New Madrid county.

The transaction was announced by Fred Copeland, New Madrid real estate dealer, who handled the deal. The sale price was not revealed.

Included in the deal were several stores, a bank, a theater, two service stations, a cotton gin, two grain elevators, a wholesale oil company and seven homes.

The property was purchased by Jack Davis and Tom Allen, Sikeston cotton growers, John D. Hux, Sikeston farm implement dealer, and James Butler of Memphis from Joseph Seales, also of Memphis.

Bathing Suits Of Earlier Days

Today people are stopping at the window of Lockett's shop which is filled with bathing suits by Cantalima since they first started making them way back in 1880 and everybody laughs; but just imagine the expressions on the faces of the men and women in that day if a girl had appeared on the bathing beach then wearing the 1880 red nylon strapless suit that is also on display in the window. What looks they would receive; what exclamations of disapproval. But today is a different day, and those same people, some who are living today, might have gasped in 1880, 1890, 1895 and 1900 but they don't today—now they laugh at the old fashioned suits worn then.

The 1880 suit was blue print with ruffled pantaloons beneath a knee length skirt. The sleeves were three-quarter with ruffles and the bathing cap looked like a sun-bonnet. The 1890 suit was gray something on the same order and trimmed in bright blue. The cap looked like an old fashioned dust cap. The red and white striped suit of 1895 had a sailor collar effect, pantaloons with elastic, below which were wide ruffles and the skirt also had elastic holding it tight about the knees. The bonnet shaped cap tied under the chin; the pantaloons, all being a little above the ankles, were still the style in 1900 and the suit shown was of black trimmed with rick-rack braid in white. The cap was ruffled. In 1912 was a suit of black with white braid trim. It was made with full skirt and no sleeves and instead of pantaloons were bloomers. 1916 had a skirt over bloomers and short sleeves. The cap tied on. In 1920 the style changed from the cotton prints and other materials of similar type to the knit suit, something on the style of the knit suits of today, except not quite so skimpy. From there on the styles in bathing suits to the present day have changed year by year, but not so drastically as just after the turn of the century.

Decline on The Stock Market
NEW YORK, May 22—(AP)—The stock market lost ground today in a relatively slow session. Gradually sinking prices accelerated their decline toward the close.

It was one of the slowest days of the year with trading at an estimated 1,600,000 shares for the entire day.

Losses were almost all fractional. Only occasionally did any of the leaders sell off as much as point.

Selling pressure was entirely absent. Things just coasted along as the prices were marked down an eighth at a time.

A little lower were Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Standard Oil (N.J.), Barnsdall Oil, United Air Lines, General Electric, Eastman Kodak, Air Reduction, American Smelt-United, Radio Corp., Schenley, Harvester, Sears Roebuck, Chrysler, General Motors, Bethlehem Steel, and U. S. Steel.

Rail bonds tended higher.

Recognition Is Given to Club Leaders

Observance by The Neighborly Neighbors Held

The Neighborly Neighbors Extension club observed National Home Demonstration Week by giving recognition to their leaders and reviewing the accomplishments of the past at their regular May meeting. In addition to this the origin of Mother's Day was read and a Mother's day game was played.

The following account of the club's activities since it was organized was written by Mrs. Thomas J. Raines:

In January, 1945, seven women met at the home of Miss Elizabeth Scott, now Mrs. Thos. J. Raines, to organize an extension club. These charter members were: Mrs. Jerry T. Vardeman; Mrs. Myron C. Harper, Mrs. Earl Johnson, Mrs. Tom Conway, Mrs. Charles Singer and Misses Elizabeth and Catherine Scott. Mrs. Harper was the first president, Mrs. Vardeman, vice-president, Miss Elizabeth Scott, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Conaway song and game leader, Miss Catherine Scott, parliamentarian and reading chairman, Mrs. Singer, child development leader and Mrs. Vardeman dramatics chairman. Several names were considered for the club, the final choice, "Neighborly Neighbors", being suggested by Mrs. Vardeman. Black and gold were chosen as club colors, the marigold as the flower, and as a motto, "Get Acquainted With Your Neighbor, You Might Like Her." At this time the state club song was, "Follow the Gleam." Meetings were to be held at the home of members on the second Wednesday of each month. Miss Dorothy Bacon was county Home Agent and J. U. Morris, county agent.

First Year War Time

This first year was still during war time, and each month two members volunteered to make cookies for the Sedalia U. S. O. A donation was made for seeds for Britain, Russia, and China. Waste fat was collected. Scrap books were made and given to the Air Base hospital, and blue and red ribbons were received for some of these. Scrap books were made for the Kansas City Children's Mercy hospital. An Easter party was given for the Cartwright school children, a valentine party and Christmas exchange held within the club and Sunshine Pals were drawn for.

Miss Reba Gum, county nurse attended the June meeting and gave a talk on cancer. In July, Miss Virginia Slusher was present and led a talk on frozen food lockers. Miss Bacon and Miss Charline Lindsay, assistant county demonstration agent, came to the September meeting, where Miss Bacon demonstrated quick machine patching of overalls. A handkerchief shower was given for her at that time, as she was leaving the county to take up other work. Miss Alice Mae Alexander succeeded her as home agent. At the club's second meeting, it was voted for each member to pay 10c a month dues.

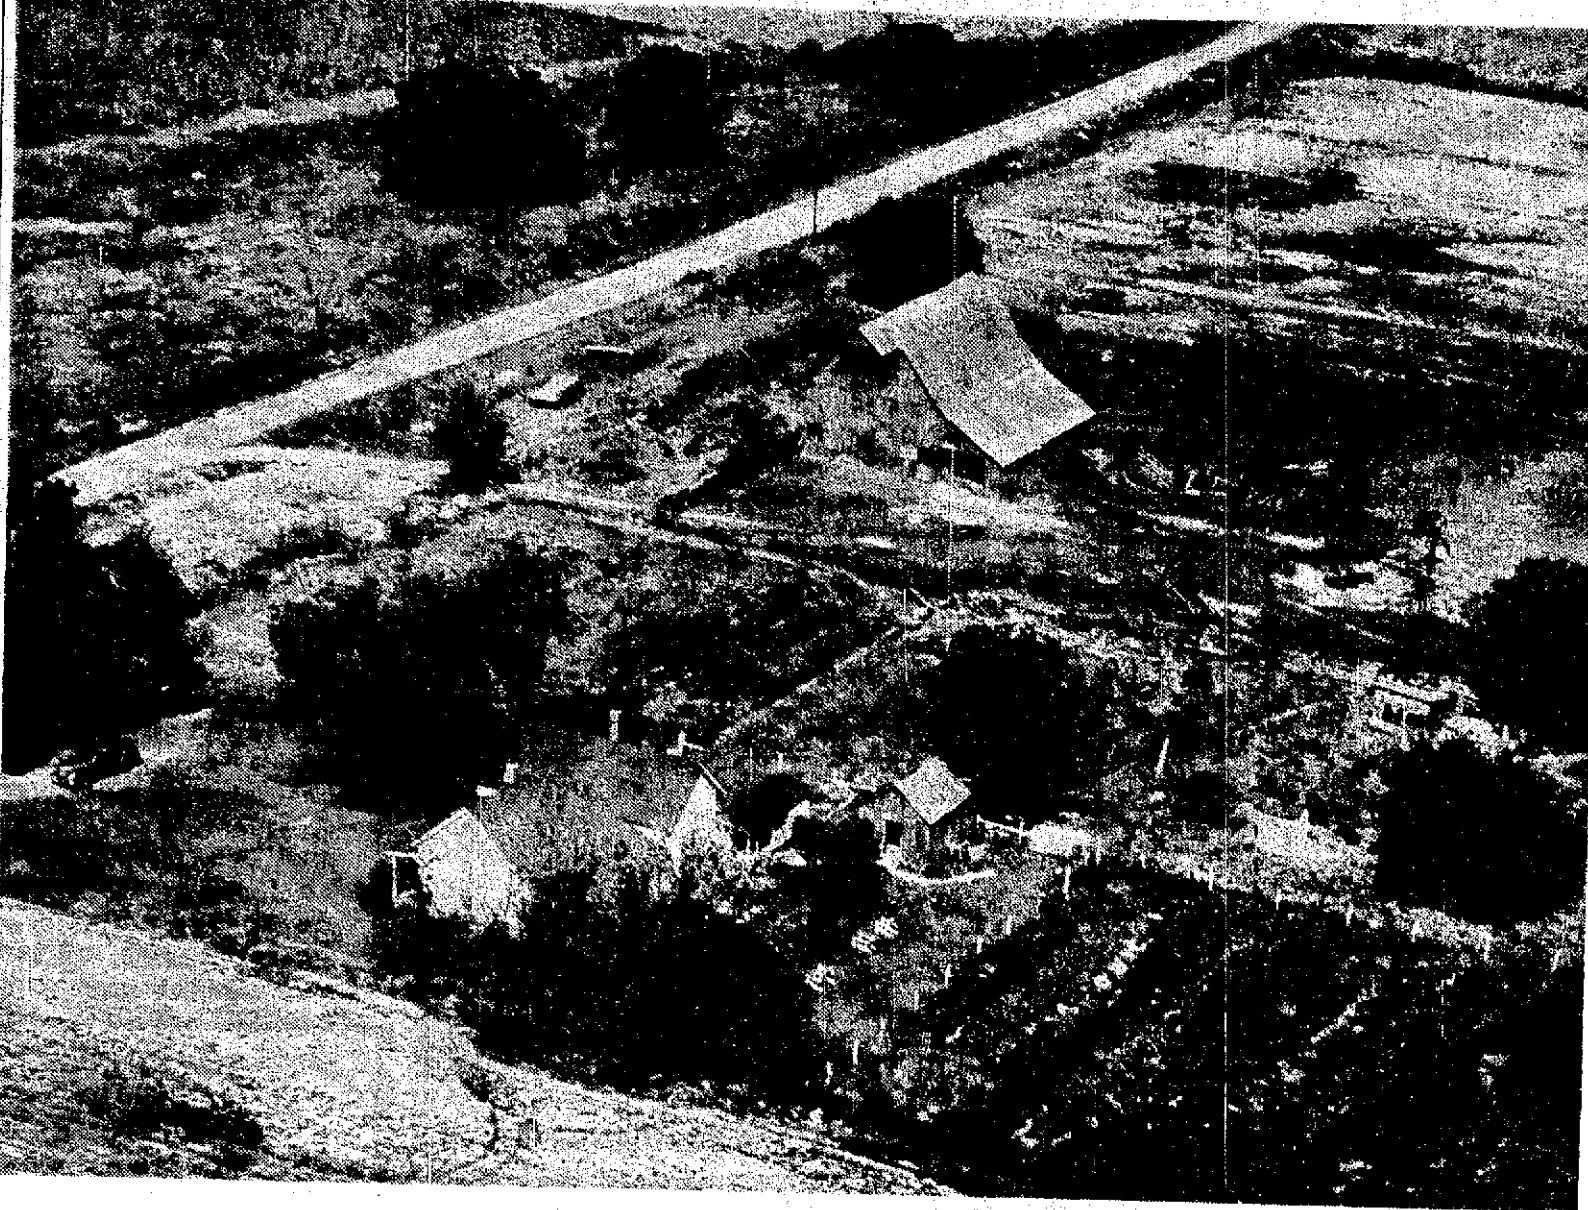

Mrs. Vardeman and Miss Elizabeth Scott were the food leaders, giving reports on "One Dozen Ways of Serving Potatoes", and "Meats That Can Wait". Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Harper were home improvement leaders; Miss Elizabeth Scott and Mrs. Harper health leaders, and Miss Catherine Scott substituted as clothing leader. The book review of the year was on "Anna and the King of Siam." During this year, Mrs. Vardeman died, the only club member so far to be lost by death. At the county achievement day, the club exhibited.

Club Membership Grows

During 1928, the club membership increased to eleven. Mrs. Harper was again president, with Mrs. Earl Johnson vice-president, Miss Elizabeth Scott secretary-treasurer, Miss Catherine Scott, reporter and parliamentarian, Mrs. Charles Singer, child development chairman, Mrs. Tom Conway song and game leader, U. S. O. cookies and scrap books for the base hospital were still being made. Leaders meeting for the year were on Home Grounds, (Miss E. Scott and Mrs. Singer); Mending and Darning (Miss C. Scott); Furniture Arrangement (Miss Minnie M. Scott, as substitute); Slip covers (Mrs. Conaway and Mrs. Sirl Todd); and Business Facts (Mrs. Harper and Miss M. Scott).

The book review was on, "One Foot in Heaven". A valentine party was given for the school children, and in September, the club held an all day meeting at the school house, spending most of the day cleaning. A quilting bee, and an ice cream picnic were held. Miss Alexander visited the club, speaking on foods. Contributions were made to the Red Cross and

Mystery Farm Pictures in Central Missouri---

Whose farm is it? Occupants of the above farm home may have wondered this spring about a plane buzzing low over their buildings. The picture explains it. The airplane pilot didn't know whose farm it was. The photographer didn't either. The two of them just flew around the Central Missouri area served by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital newspapers and took pictures. They couldn't take pictures of all the farms but they got as many good shots as possible during the light time. So about once a week hereafter, until the pictures run out,

The farm home pictured Monday in the Democrat-Capital was that of E. P. Rissler, and is located six miles northwest of LeMotte.

Mr. Rissler has resided on the 160 acre farm for 37 years and does general farming as well as raising live stock. He is married and has two children, a son in the state of California and a daughter in Ohio.

Before starting his more intensive career of farming Mr. Rissler was a well-known baseball pitcher. He now is identified with several farm organizations in the promotion of agriculture.

Pond Location Is Important

Construction Under Practice No. 4 in The 1950 Program

Farm pond construction, practice No. 4 is one of the approved practices listed in the 1950 Pettis county Agricultural Conservation Program Handbook and is also one of the five special practices. Assistance offered for this practice is 12c per cubic yard of earth moved in the construction.

A plentiful supply of water is essential to economical production of livestock. Well-located sources of supply for livestock water also contribute to a better distribution of grazing and, in some degree, contribute to the control of erosion since they serve to control the impact from flash floods.

In selecting a pond site careful consideration should be given to the watershed area. In a recent experiment conducted by the University of Missouri, it was found that the drainage from one acre will furnish 60,000 gallons of water per year. Under average conditions this amount of water will be sufficient to care for the livestock on the average farm. As a matter of general recommendation, a drainage area consisting of one to three acres is considered adequate to meet average farm needs.

Where Most Needed

A pond should be located, insofar as possible, in the area where the water is needed and where it will render the most benefit to the farmer. In the selection of a site consideration should be given to the need for clean drainage area and an adequate sod cover on that portion of the drainage area immediately above the pond. The minimum width of such sod strips should not be less than 100 feet and a wider sodded area is desirable. An adequate vegetative cover for the drainage area immediately above the pond will prevent excessive silting and will make it possible to maintain desirable depths of useable water in the pond.

Water from barnyards should never be allowed to drain into the pond. If convenience makes it

Clean-Up for old Landmark Cemetery Over 100 Years Old

Shown above is the old cemetery that the Van Natta 4-H Club and Homemakers Club cleaned, landscaped and fenced as a part of their community improvement project. The lower part pictured shows the fencing.

Members of the Van Natta 4-H club located west of Sedalia believe that spring cleaning should apply to their community as well as to their homes.

This spring, the club members in cooperation with Van Natta women's extension club undertook to clean up, landscape, and beautify an old cemetery known as the John P. George Cemetery, which is a landmark in the community. The cemetery which is well over 100 years old is located on the Leonard Scotten farm eight miles west of Sedalia. The last person to be buried there was John P. George who died in 1937. Since Mr. George's death the cemetery had grown up in briars, brush and trees and a hedge along one side of the area had spread well over the cemetery.

The Van Natta 4-H Club under the direction of their leader, Mrs. Samuel Long, has also cleaned were killed by the Indians on their way to California and buried in the cemetery. One stone testifies to the accuracy of these stories. The inscription on the stone, while highly weathered, is still legible, it reads: "Mary Jane Warren was born the 2nd day of November, 1832 and died the 28th day of October, 1846—also—Charles W. Warren who was born January 11, 1827 and was killed by the Indians on the way to California, September, 1850. Age 23 years and 8 months.

The Van Natta 4-H Club under the direction of their leader, Mrs. Samuel Long, has also cleaned

The 4-Hers and women of the Homemakers Club spent considerably time clearing the area. Club members removed the brush, briars, and small trees that had grown over the graves. In addition the women with the help of the club members removed the hedge along the north side of the cemetery. This was a task that took not only a lot of time but also much effort as anyone who has ever worked in a hedge knows.

After cleaning out all the woody growth and weeds, the next step was to fence the area. On this job the menfolk cooperated by setting the post and helping put up the fence. Mr. Ben Jenkins, Jr., of Sedalia donated the posts and the women wire fencing was purchased by funds from the two clubs treasuries.

Landscaped Cemetery

Not content with just cleaning and fencing the cemetery the 4-Hers with the help of the ladies landscaped the area with flowers and shrubs. In addition they set out iris, jonquils, and peonies around the fence as a border.

Historical Landmark

The cemetery is not only an old landmark but also has a historical background. Residents of the community can remember hearing John P. George, a life long resident of the area who died in 1937, tell stories about people buried there, that his grandmother had told him. Many of these stories concerned people that

Cards Split Twin Bill With Phils

Browns Almost Took Two Wins
Over Athletics

By the Associated Press

The St. Louis Browns almost had a double victory over the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday but a couple of home runs in the ninth inning of the second game squashed the chance.

The Brownies came from behind in the opener to hand the A's an 11 to 6 loss, then dropped the nightcap 8 to 3.

At the same time the Cardinals broke even with the Philadelphia Phillies in the eastern city, taking the first 6-5 and losing the second 4-2.

The Browns surged into the lead in the seventh inning of the second contest on a walk, Don Lenhardt's triple and Joe Ostrowski's single. But in the ninth Ostrowski threw Elmer Valo a home run ball that tied the contest.

The Athletics then loaded the sacks and Wally Moses cleared them with another circuit blow.

First Game

In the first game the A's held a three-run lead in the third but the Browns pounced onto Alex Kellner for five runs. In the sixth Sherman Lollar homered to clinch the St. Louis victory.

The Redbirds had a 6-0 victory going in their first game when the Phils started a comeback. The Phils knocked out southpaw Al Brazle with three runs in the fourth, picked up a run off Gerald Staley in the seventh and sent him to the showers when Willie Jones homered in the eighth.

Manager Eddie Dyer brought in Howard Pollet who protected the one-run lead the Birds still had.

Catcher Andy Seminick won the second game with a home run, scoring behind Dick Sisler in the ninth frame.

The Cards' second game runs came in the eighth on Eddie Kazak's home run, a double by Tommy Glaviano and a single by Charlie Diering.

Snead Won Western Open Golf Title

By Pete Arthur

LOS ANGELES, May 22—(AP)—Sam Snead is still too good for the rest of the nation's pro golfers.

If the fact needed any proof, the West Virginian provided it again yesterday by winning the $15,000 Western Open golf championship for the second year in a row.

It wasn't as sensational as his 20-under-par performance at St. Paul a year ago, but it was plenty good enough. It added another $2600 to his bank account, and boosted his tournament earnings thus far this year to $17,720.

Winning Score

His winning score was 282, only two strokes under par but enough to hold off E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Jim Ferrier, who came in with 283s.

Weatherlane to Mrs. Zaharias

WHITE PLAINS, May 22—(AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias marked up a score today in her running golf rivalry with little Louise Suggs of Georgia.

The superb Chicago athlete won the rich Weatherlane cross-country tournament—a professional plum, which completed its four-week trek here yesterday.

Outstriking the ranking pros and amateurs of her sex, Mrs. Zaharias finished the 144-hole grind with a total score of 629. That's an average of a little more than 78 strokes a round.

Umpire Bill Stewart sprawls headfirst after tripping over the outstretched foot of New York Giants third baseman Hank Thompson at the Polo Grounds May 20. The spill came in the fourth inning of the first game of a Giants-Cincinnati Reds doubleheader when Ron Northey (right), Reds' right fielder, pulled up at third base safely on third baseman Grady Hatton's single. Thompson took the throw-in. At left is Reds' coach Tony Cuccinello. Giants won the first game, 8-0. (AP Wirephoto)

Indians Lead American Association

By the Associated Press

It looks as if outfielder Whitey Platt has shaken off his batting slump—making Indianapolis even more dangerous than ever in the American Association.

The 28-year old Platt, who was with the St. Louis Browns in 1949, has been trying to get accelerated all season after hitting under .240. Sunday he opened up, slamming four singles and two homers in eight times at bat in a doubleheader to drive in eight runs.

Crosby Bows Out Of British Golf

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 22—(AP)—Bing Crosby bowed out of the British Amateur golf championship in the first round today when he was beaten by J. K. Wilson, a Scot, 3 and 2.

The crooner started well, winning the first two holes with birdie three, but Wilson pulled even at the end of nine holes and proved too steady on the way back for his celebrated opponent.

Tabbed a 33-1 shot by the bookmakers, Crosby arrived here only yesterday and did not have a chance to practice over the famous "old course," which is closed on Sundays.

The first of 29 American entries to finish his opening round was Bill Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga., who squelched his British rival, Sir John Craddock-Hartopp, 7 and 5. Bing and his opponent, a St. Andrews building contractor, played most of their match in the rain that kept both under umbrellas.

The Hollywood star played in a tattered old maroon sweater and waterproof pants. Wilson observed of him:

"A proper gentleman and a grand golfer. I rather think he let me win it."

Neither man kept score, but Crosby's out card was an unofficial 41, including three straight sixes from the fourth hole through the sixth. Wilson was out in 42.

On seven holes of the back nine the Hollywood star blew himself to two more sixes and was approximately 12 strokes over St. Andrews' unofficial par when the match ended on the 16th green.

Sedalia Flyers Beat Sweet Springs 7 to 6

The Sedalia Flyers defeated Sweet Springs 7 to 6 at Sweet Springs Sunday.

The Sweet Spring Farmers got off to an early lead, scoring four runs in the first three innings.

Earl Burnett started for the Flyers and was replaced by "Spike" Vickers in the fourth inning.

The Flyers scored six runs in the next four frames, while the Farmers scored two runs.

The score was tied 6 to 6 going into the ninth, the Flyers scoring the winning run when Vickers drew a walk with the bases loaded. The Farmers failed to score in the last of the ninth.

Burnett struckout five men in the four innings he worked. "Spike" Vickers wiffed fifteen during the rest of the game.

The Flyers making the trip were: McGowan, Cooper, Harlan Krause, Ford, R. McCoy, Herbert Krause, Vickers, Chancellor and Burnett. The team is managed by Wally McGowan.

The Sedalia Flyers will meet Sweet Springs this Sunday afternoon at the Sixteenth street diamond.

MY Biggest BONER

Munger Pitches Low Against Orders And is Nearly Killed

By Red Munger
Cardinals' Pitcher

Stan Schino was a terrific low ball hitter.

Manager Ira Smith of the Houston Buffs warned me before the game at Tulsa in 1938 not to pitch the ball low, where Schino could hit it.

In the third inning, I reared back to fog my last ball past Schino, but made the frightful error of pitching it low, exactly where he liked it best.

Schino combed the ball directly back at me, so fast that I didn't even have time to get my glove up.

The ball struck me just above the heart, knocked me down. I managed to get up, grab the ball and throw Schino out. With the Oilers retired, I returned to the dugout, took my trun at bat, and went out to pitch the next inning.

I felt fine, but when I cleared my throat, as you do, I spat blood.

Now, I don't want baseball to become a bloody business, so I raised my hand and stopped the game. That was all, brother—for me. I went to a hospital, had X-rays taken.

The doctor told me that had the ball struck me a half inch lower it would have killed me. I was three days in the hospital. I carried stamped on my chest the seams of the baseball and the official signature of J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league.

It was a reminder of My Biggest Boner in Baseball.

Blackwell Neglects To Close Gate And It Costs Him Second No-Hitter

Reds' Pitcher

I would have duplicated Johnny Vander Meer's two consecutive no-hit, no-run games if—

Well, let's back pedal to that memorable afternoon of June 22, 1947.

Four days previously I had notched my first major league no-hit, no-run victory.

And I was well on my way to doing it again at Crosley Field. I was facing the pennant winning Brooklyn club, but my fast ball was really alive. For eight innings the Dodgers didn't get even a smell of a bingle.

With one out in the ninth, Ed-

Sedalia Cubs Score 9-1 Win Over Slater

Local Team Host
To House of David
Team Friday Night

The Sedalia Cubs defeated the Slater Merchants Sunday afternoon at Liberty Park by the score of 9 to 1 before a small crowd.

Bob Rapp was on the mound for Sedalia, allowing six scattered hits with not more than one hit coming in a single inning.

Slater scored its only unearned run in the third inning on a hit, walk and two errors. Adams hurled for the visiting team and was hit hard from the start, allowing 15 hits and eight earned runs. He was given good support by his teammates.

Leading Hitters
George Thompson got three singles out of five trips. Barnes got three hits out of four and Hume got a double and a single for the Cubs. Dollahyde for Slater got three hits out of four trips, a double and two singles.

Charley Thompson, centerfielder for the Cubs, handled eight putouts without an error. The fielding of the Cubs continues to improve and better games are in store for the Sedalia team.

In the sixth inning, Dollahyde got a double and tried to stretch it into a triple and was out at third base when Barnes, rightfielder, threw to cassing, shortstop, who tossed the ball to Barr at third base.

Hume was behind the plate for Sedalia and caught a fine game. He had been out of the lineup most of the early season nursing an old knee injury.

To Meet Noted Team
The Sedalia Cubs will play the House of David team Friday night at 8:00 o'clock at Liberty park.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the Sedalia Cubs' officers will hold a meeting in the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce office.

die Stanky worked the count to two and two.

Then he took a terrific lunge at a fast ball, hit it with the handle of the bat.

Perhaps it was because the Dodgers hadn't been hitting. Anyway, for some reason the ball looked to me as though it had been shot out of a cannon.

And it was coming directly at me.

Actually, it was just a slow roller.

I stooped down for it, miscalculated the speed of the ball, raised too fast, the ball hopping between my legs.

By the time I retrieved the ball, Stanky was standing on first, credited with a base hit.

Had I played the ball as I should have, blocking it with one knee, Stanky would have been just another out.

My no-hitter would have been saved.

The next batter popped up, which would have ended the game.

It cost me $100,000. I would have collected that much additional in increased pay, for indorsements and whatnot.

Mental or physical—call it what you like—that was my biggest boner in baseball.

Results of Big Seven Baseball

KANSAS CITY, May 22—(AP)—The Nebraska Cornhuskers can clinch the Big Seven conference baseball championship by beating the Kansas State Wildcats in games at Manhattan today and tomorrow.

The Huskers moved into first place by sweeping a doubleheader with Colorado, 7 to 4 and 3 to 1 at Lincoln Saturday.

Missouri knocked Oklahoma off the top rung last week by beating the Sooners twice, the last 6-0 Saturday, and advanced to second place.

Nebraska leads the pack with 9 victories and 3 losses. Missouri has won 9 and lost 5, while Oklahoma has a 6-4 record.

Oklahoma had a game with Kansas at Lawrence today and will close its season against the Jayhawkers on the same diamond tomorrow.

Colorado will be at Iowa State today and tomorrow.

Only remaining games after the early week sessions will find Kansas State at Colorado May 29 and 30.

The standings, including games of May 20:

Gonzales May Be Ousted
From Pro Tennis Troupe
DAYTON, O., May 22—(AP)—Is Richard (Pancho) Gonzales finished as a member of the Jack Kramer-Bobby Riggs touring tennis troupe?

The 1949 U.S. singles champion finished his cross-country series with Kramer here yesterday just as he started—by losing. The scores this time were 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, Kramer.

After the match, Riggs, who's the tour promoter, announced that Kramer would accept challenges from leading amateurs for a 1950 tour once this summer's amateur meets are over.

Kramer wound up the cross country tour with 94 wins to 28 for Gonzales, who received a $60,000 guarantee to turn pro.
